TAYLOR'S DRESS: THE INSIDE SCOOP

Taylor's wedding dress – an empire-line strapless gown worth $3 500 (R24 500) – was designed for the occasion by The Bold's costume designer at the time, Birgit Muller. Angelo Santos, a tailor in the show's wardrobe department, made the gown by hand using silk chiffon over multiple layers of silk.

Hunter loved the dress because it reminded her of the gown she wore for her impromptu Vegas wedding to her husband, Gersson Archila, in 2009.

found her Mr Right in Gersson Archila (39) whom she married two years ago in a secret Las Vegas wedding. During her 20 years in The Bold she has made seven trips down the aisle.

Rick has acted in five soaps and taken centre stage in eight TV weddings, including one other Bold wedding to Brooke seven years ago during his first stint in the show. Away from the cameras he has eyes only for Donna Smoot, a dancer he fell in love with more than 20 years ago.

With all that experience Rick and Hunter knew exactly what was expected of them on the two-day shoot.

Rick says his second Bold wedding went like clockwork but adds he had fun unleashing his inner prankster when he confronted Ridge (Ronn Moss), with improvised dialogue that didn't make the final edit.

"Let's just say there were a few expletives I threw down as if I were in character. I went gangster on Ridge and said something along the lines of 'Sit your motherf***** ass down!'"

Ronn also had a few tricks up his sleeve. After making a heartfelt speech about love he had everybody in stitches when he grabbed Rick and pretended he was about to kiss him.

Hunter also recalls plenty of horsing around during the wedding shoot. If you watch some of the scenes you might just catch some of the silly moments – including one in which she and Rick can be seen dancing weirdly in the background while other characters are shooting a scene.

"All in all it was as fun as a real wedding – but without the planning hassles," she says. □
